

"Doctor Assistant - Bridge Year(s) Opportunity for Gap Year Students or part-time undergraduate students looking to work in a boutique aesthetic and dermatology

This hourly paid position is intended to be educational value for a future physicians, physician assistants, or nurse practitioners who is interested in learning medicine by directly assisting a Stanford University trained, board certified dermatologist.

Direct physician mentorship is the key outcome component of this experience. The environment of a private practice encourages a unique and steep learning curve.

The doctor assistant concept combines cross-trained traditional roles of medical receptionist and medical assistant.

Responsibilities involve coordinating all aspects of patient care, including arranging appointments, optimizing physician efficiency, assisting with cosmetic, medical and surgical procedures, managing materials and supplies, handling patients before, during, and after outpatient care, and serving as scribe for the dermatologist

This position requires excellent communication and interpersonal skills,